FRESH CHICKEN SPECIAL

Here are some special chicken dishes cooked with the fresh chicken which are bought from the live chicken market, cut and processed right before the cooking and not frozen or long time refrigerated, and cooked strictly according to the Sichuan traditional technique.

If you pay a little more attention, you will notice that very few Chinese order a chicken dish in a Chinese restaurant. There are two reasons: first, chicken raised at back yards in china and in farm in America that make American chicken much less tasted. Second, chicken in China are cut and processed right before the cooking, on the other hand, these is a long way to process the chicken in America: chicken cut, refrigerated and packed in meat mills, shipped to distributors, then shipped to suppliers, then delivered to restaurants, then the cooks cut, marinate and refrigerate the chicken for a few days use. In this way, the chicken lost their taste completely.

Although the live chicken are more expensive, try these new concept chicken dishes and figure out the differences.

The Prodigal Princess Dishes of Madarian Emperor

From last year to now, we have been playing the video types that showing the Chinese TV series; "The Prodigal Princess of Chinese Emperor." All of us have enjoyed the TV series very much and at last, we decided to cook eight dishes from the TV series.

This TV series was on the top in China, Hong Kong and Taiwan for almost last two years. The TV series tells the story of a Chinese royal family around 250 years ago. The Emperor, named Qian Long(17 – 17) in Qing Dynasty, once met a young girl in the South of China and stayed together only for a few days. After the Emperor was back to Peking, the Capital of Qing, they had no chance to meet again for the rest of their lives. However, the young girl who was the Emperor lover had a baby girl next year. The baby was named after "Purple Rose." Twenty years later, the Emperor's lover was very sick. Before she died, she told her daughter to go North to Peking and to look for and reunite with her father, the Emperor. On her way to Peking, another beartiful young girl called "little swallow" became her best fried.

The funnest thing is that the "little swallow" first met and was wrongly recognized by the Emperor as a Prodigal daughter and the really prodigal daughter, Purple Rose, worked as the little swallow's close maid. Under this wrong relationships, both girls accompanied the Emperor to go a private visiting in China. One day they were riding through a place where there were hills, river and grass land. The Emperor was so glad that he liked to have a picnic along the river. The two young girls tried to find anything they could and cooked eight dished for the Emperor. The most interesting thing was that the real prodigal daughter named each dish by one sentence from some famous Chinese ancient poems. Each dish, in one way or another, more or less, matched the meanings of the poetic sentence. Each dish expressed the beauty of the poem and Romanticism.

Now we adapt these eight dishes and their poetic names. However, we have recreated these dishes with Sichuan ingredients and style. We hope our patrons would love these dishes and enjoy reading these poems at the same time.

(1). Green Parrot with a red mouth: whole spinach with fresh ginger and red spicy oil: However, the name sentence is not from a poem. The dish is a typical Sichuan cold dish. The whole spinach with the major part of its root to be cooked and cooled, then placing the spinach leaves into the plate the same way and then pouring the fresh ginger sauce and red oil on the top and served. The name sentence is also a metaphor to the dish: Chinese very often compare the spinach to green parrot and red roots to the parrot's mouth.

- (2). The newly grass in Spring must be like green and shredded silk -- Sichuan cold spicy and sour vegetables. Vegetables like carrot, cabbage, green pepper and so on are threaded cut and mixed with spicy and sour sauce. It is a typical family cold dish. The poem sentence describes the new grass in Spring is so green and tender that it is like the green and soft silk. The sentence is from the poem "A wife long for her husband in Spring" written by Li Bai(lived from 701 762 AB) in Tang Dynasty. He is considered number one of the greatest poets in the history of China and his poems observed the style of Romantism.
- (3). The mulberry trees bent their green branches sauteed green celery, spicy pepper and squid with spicy black beans. This sentence like the Sentence #2(above), comes from the same poem written by Li Bai. The sentence describes that the mulberry trees in Spring grow up the new leaves and bent their branches in Spring wind. The wife saw everything new in Spring and was long for her husband who was away from the family. The original dish in the TV series only had vegetables and not spicy. Now we make some change: Threaded celery and green pepper are compared to green branches and cut squid to mulberry. Thus, the dish matches the poem. The dish is sauteed with spice green pepper and black bean sauce. It tastes spicy and saity.
- (4). We would be two love-birds flying wing to wing on high sauteed baby chicken pieces with fresh ginger and spices. The poetic sentence comes from the poem "The ever lasting Regret" written by Bai, Juyi(772 846 AC). Bai lived in Tang Dynasty around 1200 years ago. he is considered as one of greatest poets in the history of China. This poem describes a miserable story of Tang Emperor and his lover. The story started as happiness and ended as a tragedy. The poet wished the Emperor and his lover would be the love-birds flying wing to wing in the sky after their death. In the TV series, the dish was two whole chicken that matched the meaning of the poem. However, we just sauteed the baby chicken pieces with soft bone in spicy fresh ginger and scallion. Sometime we put some garnish that symbols the two chicken on it. It tastes spicy salty and mixed a Little sweet.

(5). The white-feathered Egrets fly over broad water fields - sliced shrimp over soft bean curd in brown sauce. The poem sentence comes from the poem "written at the Rural Retreat at Wangchuan During a Prolonged Rain", which was written by WangWei, who lived in Tang Dynasty from 701 - 761 AC. He was a very important and famous poet in the history of China. With our dish, we compare the brown sauce covered bean curd to the water field and the cut large shrimp to the white Egret. This is a beautiful light sauteed dish.

(6). Yellow Orioles marble high in the shadowy Summer woods - olivery bean curd and with green vegetables. This poem sentence comes from the same poem as #5. The sentence says that the yellow Orioles sing in the woods in Summer. Here we use the long cut green vegetables as the "Summer woods" and the olivary bean curd as the yellow orioles. We powder the bean curd and baby shrimp and mix them to make the olivary shape. That means "olivary bean curd", the dish is light color and taste. The olivary bean curd sauteed with green vegetables that allegories the "Egrets warble in the Summer woods".

(7). Phoenixes came to sing once on the phoenix terrace - braised whole quail over winter melon. The poem sentence also comes from the poem "On Phoenix Terrace on Jinling"written by Li Bai. The whole poem says the phoenixes used to sing on the terrace. Now the phoenixes were gone and the terrace was still here. The wild grass grew very high and the old earth tombs were almost wom out. The poet could not see the Capital and felt very depression. The whole poem was at a very sad mood. However, the first sentence of the poem is the name of our dish: the whole quail is like the flying phoenix and the large sliced cut winter melon at the bottom of the plate is like the "Terrace". Certainly the phoenixes are flying on the phoenix terrace.

(8). The phoenixes are gone but still roll on the rivers waves - duck soup with sliced turnip and pork. The soup compares to the river and the duck bone in it means the gone the phoenixes. The poem sentence came from the same poem like dish #7. The dish #7 says the phoenixes used to sing on the phoenix terrace. This dish says that the phoenixes were gone and the terrace was empty and the river was flowing like before. The poem described the scene and the feeling of the loss, sadness and the loneliness. Very often we have the same feeling: we used to have power, rights, future, happiness and so on. Now, we lost all of these. How do we feel?
